Refuses To Furnish Security And Gets 3 Years Jail

RAWALPINDI, May 6. Malik Mohd. Zamankhan, a prominent member of the Mustakhal family of Kurram Pass, has been gaoled for three years under the Frontier Crimes Regulation. The Political Agent at Kurram had ordered him to furnish a surety of 3,000 for three years on the ground of his alleged connection with the "Red Shirt", Khudakhidmatgar movement. The Malik is reported to have demanded equal political rights and privileges in the Kurram Agency with the rest of the province and refused to furnish security.—A.P.

RELIEF TO INCOME-TAX PAYERS

SIMLA, May 6. Considerable relief to income-tax payers is promised by circular issued by the Central Board of Revenue to all income-tax officers, suggesting that consideration should be shown to the convenience of the tax-paying public as regards: (1) the estimation of profits in the absence of reliable evidence, (2) the examination of witnesses, (3) the delay and departmental attitude in connection with refunds, (4) bad debts, (5) the date of payment of tax and (6) computation of annual value of property. Instructions contained in the circular include the following: The principle of progressive enhancement should be applied only, where there is reason to believe that the assessee has made default in the hope of obtaining assessment on lower than real income. The practice of making excessive assessments under section 23 (4) is indefensible.—A.P.

Zetland Bangs Door Against Congress No Prospect Of Peace Negotiations

CERTIFICATE TO PUPPET MINISTERS

Governors Can't Give General Assurance Asked For

LONDON, May 6. Lord Zetland, replying to Lord Snell's question as to whether, with a view to getting rid of the present difficulties, a meeting can be arranged between the Viceroy and Gandhiji, said that the suggestion seems to rest on the assumption that, as a result of discussion between the Viceroy and Gandhiji, a short simple formula—an alternative to Gandhiji's—can be discovered to regulate the manner in which the Governors will exercise their reserved powers.

A Further Difficulty

"I need not repeat what I said in reply to the question by Lord Lothian as regards the impossibility of the Governors divesting themselves of the obligations imposed by the Act, but I feel bound to call attention to a further difficulty in the way of any such general assurance as it is suggested the Governors might give, namely, that it would inevitably lead to differences in interpretation in particular cases and consequently charges of breach of faith."

Not Normal Feature

But "the reserved powers of which so much has been made by the Congress," declared Lord Zetland, "will not normally be in operation. . . . Even if the question of this use it would be altogether wrong to assume that a Governor would immediately let himself in open opposition to his Ministry."

Snell Thanks Zetland

Before the debate terminated Lord Snell expressed his thanks to Lord Zetland for his speech, which he considered carried them further than they were when the debate began.—Reuter.

NO ALTERNATIVE FORMULA

If a quasi-legal formula could be devised to regulate the varied and changing relationships between the Governor and his Ministry, Lord Zetland proceeded, it would have been embodied in the Act. It was just because there was no such formula that it was emphasised again and again in the course of the discussions preceding the Bill that it would be the spirit in which the Constitution was worked that would be of the first importance for its success. "It is here that such unfortunate misunderstanding have arisen. In some quarters a great deal more has been read into that part of the Act which imposes certain obligations upon a Governor than it actually contains."

MINISTRY UNDER ACT

"In its most recent pronouncement, the Congress declared that the past record and present attitude of the British Government showed that without the assurance demanded a popular Ministry would be exposed to constant irritating interference. This differs so profoundly from the picture of a popular Ministry functioning under the Act as I have always seen it that it is perhaps desirable that I should describe the working of the Constitution in Indian provinces as I always contemplated it. Since I was a member not only of the Select Committee, but the Round Table Conference, I may claim to know something of the intentions of those who framed the measure and the spirit in which it was conceived."

NO DIVISION

First let it not be supposed that the field of Government may be divided into two parts in which the Governor and Ministers operate separately at the risk of clashes between them. The essence of the new Constitution is that the initiative and responsibility for the whole Government of the province, though in a form vesting in the Governor, passes to the Ministry as soon as it takes office. It will be the Governor's duty to help

Ministers in their task in every way, particularly by his political experience or administrative knowledge.

RESERVED POWERS

"The reserved powers of which so much has been made by the Congress will not normally be in operation; indeed they only come into the picture if he considers that the carefully limited special responsibilities laid upon him by the Act and impressed upon him by the Instrument of Instructions are involved, but even if the question of their use does arise—here is emphasised the spirit in which it was intended that the Constitution should be worked—it would be altogether wrong to assume that a Governor would immediately set himself in open opposition to his Ministry."

WHEN THEY DIFFER

"That is the last thing in the world that I should either expect or desire. A Governor whose advice and support has been valuable to a Ministry in the conduct of its own affairs will surely be able to lay his own difficulties before them the moment he sees a risk that he and his Ministers may not see eye to eye in a matter for which special responsibility has been laid upon him by Parliament. Just as Ministers can count upon the assistance of the Governor in their difficulties, so could he in his turn rely upon receiving the sympathetic consideration of his Ministers for a difficulty in his own position which may be met by some modification of their proposals that would not materially affect the Ministry's programme."

IF THEY ARE PARTNERS

In any case a discussion of the matter between men working together for a common purpose is likely at least to secure that points of difference between them are narrowed. It will then be for each having regard to the interests of the province as a whole to consider whether the points of difference so narrowed and defined justify a break in a fruitful relationship. It would doubtless be (Continued on page 2 Col 2)

STATE MONOPOLY OF ARMS TRADE

British Govt. Accepts Royal Commission's Conclusions

LONDON, May 6. The British Government has accepted the conclusion of the Royal Commission on the manufacture of and trade in arms that in the present state of international affairs the establishment of a universal system of State monopoly is unlikely either to reduce the available supply of arms and munitions or increase the prospects of peace.

An official White Paper adds that the substitution of a State monopoly for private manufacture may be practicable, but it is undesirable.

The promotion of measures for the international regulation of the manufacture of and trade in arms has long formed part of the British policy, but difficulties must not be overlooked, notably in the case of countries which are unable to manufacture munitions necessary to their safety. Government fully sympathise with the United States draft proposals with some modification.

It must unfortunately be recognised that the present international conditions do not encourage hopes that progress towards international limitation and reduction of arms is likely to be immediately realised. Government are prepared to accept the Draft Convention of the Subcommittee of the Disarmament Conference relating to publicity and defence expenditure if accepted by the principal powers.—Reuter's Special.

NEW SCHEME OF SUGAR QUOTAS

LONDON, May 6.

The International Sugar negotiations have been successfully concluded by the signing of an agreement in London this afternoon providing for a scheme of export quotas and the establishment of a permanent international council to study questions in all aspects of the world sugar industry.

Of the 22 countries involved the following are the principal basic tonnages permitted for export: Holland and Colonies 10,500,000 tons, Cuba 940,000, British Colonies 950,000, Australia 408,000, Peru 330,000, Dominica 400,000, Soviet's 230,000 and South Africa 208,000.

INDIA WILL PROHIBIT SEABORNE EXPORTS

The United States will continue to import from the free market as much as at present. India will prohibit seaborne exports elsewhere than to Burma, while Britain will limit domestic production to 808,000 tons.

The China Council is empowered to vary the quotas by a uniform figure when necessary provided that the Government's consent is unanimously agreed.—Reuter.

LONDON, May 6.

Announcing in the House of Commons that the Sugar Conference had reached agreement on all substantial points, Mr. Malcolm MacDonald said that in the event of the agreement becoming operative, Government proposed to stabilise the existing rates of general imperial preference during its five-year currency.

The existing colonial preference would also be continued subject to minor modifications.—Reuter.

Congress Leaders Are Not Petitioners

MAHATMA SPEAKS OUT

If British Govt. Can't Tolerate Independence Goal, Let Them Not Talk Of Autonomy

WARDHAGANJ, May 6. The "Associated Press" put a series of questions to Mahatma Gandhi on the Allahabad decision, and Gandhiji gave the following answers:—

Question: "I take it that you had much to do with the latest resolution of the Working Committee on office acceptance. If so, is there any truth in the suggestion that you have yielded to Left Wingers?"

Answer: "As a matter of fact there were no Left Wingers and Right Wingers this time. The only question discussed was about the form the resolution had to take."

Then Where's The Difficulty?

Question: Do you not see that there is very little difference between Mr. Butler's statement and the Working Committee's resolution?"

Answer: "If that is so, why is there the slightest difficulty about Mr. Butler's instructing the Governors to offer office to Congress leaders in terms of the Congress resolution?"

MINISTERS OR APPLICANTS?

Question: "Leaving Lord Zetland's speech aside for the moment, what is the discourtesy you detect in Mr. Butler's statement?"

Answer: "I have never known a great party commanding the majority that the Congress does have, such a thing as office throwing at it, and its leaders treated as if they were petitioners. If they were Ministers, would they have to send applications to Governors for interviews and run the risk of their applications being summarily rejected? I had thought that in autonomy Ministers got an audience of their Governors for the asking, and often the Governors had to give in to the Ministers where the latter had felt displeased or offended."

"The British Government know that the Congress is out for complete Independence. It seems to me that the British Cabinet resent this attitude of the Congress. If so they should plainly tell the Congress and the world that they will not tolerate Complete Independence and should cease to play with the word autonomy. If, on the other hand, they do not mind the natural evolution of India to its destiny, whatever it may be, they must treat Congress with the consideration its position demands, and disarm suspicion that, owing to their speech and action, is deepening"—A.P.

New Era For Europe In End Of Spanish Tragedy

LONDON, May 6. The razing of Guernica figured prominently in the debate in the House of Commons on the working of the Non-Intervention Pact. Mr. Lloyd George expressed the opinion that Non-Intervention was not so great a success as Mr. Eden had anticipated. "Non-intervention not enforced is worse than useless," he asked what the Government would do if these horrors continued.

EDEN'S REPLY

Mr. Eden in reply gave the latest official information about Barcelona from the British Consul-General. The situation was very grave on May 4 and fighting between anarchists and police was proceeding daylong. Last night the situation was still confused. Fighting was heavy and there appeared to be considerable deathroll.

TERRIBLE FUTURE

He said that Guernica, from information available, seemed to be a particularly deplorable example of bombing and machine-gunning a town from the air. The subject was not due to a desire to put any other country in the dock, but to the belief that if repeated it would mean a terrible deathroll for Europe.

"We want to make this event the case for seeking to terminate

Fresh Parleys For Peace

Meeting After Coronation?

Congress Terms May Be Conceded?

(From Our Correspondent)

LONDON, May 6.

The arrival of Sir T. B. Sapru revived conversations in political circles regarding the Constitutional 'impasse'.

The fact that Mr. Jayakar is not arriving in London for some time has strengthened the general belief that Sir T. B. Sapru will not act as an intermediary.

Conversations in different circles here enable me to state that the Interim Ministries were formed after consultations with Whitehall in order that Governors should not take powers under Section 93 of the Government of India Act. If it was merely a question of "King's Government must be carried on" Section 93 did meet the situation.

But I understand Whitehall was most anxious that on the first of April there should not be proclamation in any province announcing complete breakdown of the Constitution necessitating Governors' taking powers in the six provinces where the Congress has a majority. If Governors had taken powers, it would have been interpreted even by those inclined to support Government that it was not really anxious to transfer responsibility.

CONTACT WITH CONGRESS

Another factor that evidently weighed with Whitehall was, once Governors took over powers, whatever the prospects of re-establishing contact with Congress leaders would have been forfeited. Once Governors took powers and desired to enact any legislation, it was incumbent upon them to dissolve the legislature. But by forming 'interim' Ministries, the authorities feel such prospects of contact with Congress leaders has not been destroyed.

As a result of the recent statements of Gandhiji Sir T. B. Sapru and Mr. Sastri I believe another effort will be made to open discussions with Congress leaders.

(1) This direction may be taken immediately after the coronation or after the session of the Imperial Conference. In all probability, Madras may be selected to re-examine the position and on the 28th Lord Erskine may send for Rajagopalachari. The existing "misunderstanding" will be approached from a new angle and Lord Erskine will not hesitate to make clear that he was least anxious to interfere with the Ministers' day to day administration, so long as it did not mean the abrogation of the constitution.

LIKE DISRAELI

If conversations conclude satisfactorily, other Governors will take similar steps to attain similar results after which minority ministries may follow the footsteps of Disraeli who in the seventies of last century resigned without meeting the legislature. They will argue they did not form Cabinets as an act of hostility to Congress, but to give time to both sides for reflection.

Unofficial circles here are most disappointed—if not disgusted—with the attitude of the Viceroy for his persistent silence on the issue.

Lord Linlithgow is now jocularly called here as the best lips sealed Englishman after Mr Stanley Baldwin.

FARMERS' AID SOCIETY

New Organisation To Help Ahmedabad Ryots

AHMEDABAD. (By Mail).

Mr. J. V. Desai writes:— devoted his energies for the uplift of village and the Government has also been moving in this direction for some time past. But these attempts require to be supplemented by other agencies. It is the desire of some friends to unite into a body and work for the amelioration of the farmers in this District. In order to improve his economic condition first attention is required to be paid to agriculture. The agriculturist wants better implements and seeds, manures, and cattle and this will be the prime object of the Society to be formed. The farmer loses at both ends. He has to pay heavily for his requirements and sell his produce cheaper. The Farmers' Aid Society will arrange to supply his requirements on reasonable terms and obtain better terms for his produce. The operations of this Society will be confined in the first instance to a village or groups of villages in the Daskroi Taluka.

If the Scheme is favourably received, the society will be registered under the Indian Companies Act as a private Company with a nominal Capital of Rs. 50,000 divided into 500 shares of the face value of Rs. 100 but the number of shareholders will be restricted to 50, each member taking up shares for Rs. 1,000. It is not proposed to call up the whole capital, but only Rs. 20 per share will be called up in the first instance and the remaining 80 per cent. of the capital will be considered Reserve Capital which may be called up in instalments on a resolution of the company.

AT 83 SHE DEFIES RHEUMATISM

After Suffering Acute Pain For Years

WRITES HERSELF TO THANK KRUSCHEN FOR RELIEF

Rheumatism first attacked this old lady in 1931, and gradually spread from her arms to all parts of her body. She could not sleep for the pain in spite of trying endless remedies. She was almost helpless. Then she started to take Kruschen Salts, and now she sends the following letter in her own handwriting—

"I have suffered from rheumatism since 1931. At first, I felt acute pain in both arms. I could not sleep or move. It grew worse, and gradually crept down to the tips of my fingers. Next it reached my knees and ankles, which made me quite helpless for a long period. A friend recommended me to take Kruschen Salts. I found they do me more good than any other medicine, liniment, ointment, etc. I have every faith in Kruschen, and hope others will benefit as I have done. This is my own writing, though I am in my 84th year."—(Mrs. H.)

The pains and stiffness of rheumatism are caused by deposits of needle-pointed uric acid crystals in the muscles and joints. Kruschen Salts stimulate your liver and kidneys to healthy, regular action; assist them to get rid of the excess uric acid which is the cause of all your suffering. Kruschen Salts is obtainable at all Chemists, Stores and Bazars.

FACES FIRST.

To begin with, let's look at your complexion in a mirror. Is it pale, cold, north light? Nothing flattering or friendly about this mirror—it reveals a tired, middle-aged skin etched with tiny lines and wrinkles, reveals a tendency towards sallowness. What are you to do about it? Get rid of that faded complexion. Give yourself a new, youthful complexion, unblemished, satin-smooth. You can do this, you know. All you want is an ounce or two of Mercolized Wax from your chemist, apply a little of it nightly to face and neck. While you sleep this oxygenated wax will work its magic, gently and imperceptibly absorbing the outer skin with all its blemishes, revitalising the tired tissue, making it bloom again with beauty. A brief ten-day trial will suffice to convince you that this wax treatment is the one you have been waiting for. Mercolized Wax contains no animal fat.

Defamation Charge Against Hirjibehdin And Bharucha Fails

Judgment was delivered by Mr. D. N. D. Khandalawala, Presidency Magistrate, Third Court, in the case in which Mr. E. F. Bharucha and Mr. E. R. Hirjibehdin, Editor of the "Kaiser-i-Hind" were charged with defamation by Mr. F. K. Dadachanji, Solicitor.

The facts, as they appear from the judgment, which runs into 28 typed pages, are that Mr. Dadachanji is an orthodox Parsee, and the Vice-President of the Zoroastrian Jasan Committee, the object of which is to spread true religious views and teach the Parsi community its ancient history.

"Juddin Navjote"

The initiation of a Parsee child into the fold of the Zoroastrian religion is known as Navjote, and the ceremony of the initiation consists in the putting on of a sacred shirt called "Sudra" and a sacred thread called "Kusti". A Navjote of a child of a Parsee father and an alien mother is called "Juddin Navjote".

Anjuman Committee

Under a scheme sanctioned by the High Court, a group of Parsees, called the Hundred of the Anjuman Committee, is elected by the Parsee community every seven years. This group as well as 80 or 85 donors to the charities in the hands of the Trustees of the Parsee Panchayat of Bombay elect in their turn the trustees of the Parsi Panchaya Funds, and property when a vacancy occurs.

By-Election To Committee

In the middle of February 1936, two vacancies in the Hundred of the Anjuman Committee had to be filled necessitating a by-election, and there was keen rivalry between those who held orthodox views, and those having a broad outlook on social and religious questions affecting the Parsi community.

The complainant cast his weight in favour of two candidates, viz. Framroz Bativala and Jal Bajan, and extolled them in the press; the rival candidates Dasturji Gharda and Rustom Desai came under his displeasure.

U. P. MUSLIM LEAGUERS' PLAN FOR MASS CONTACT

Parliamentary Board's Decision

LUCKNOW, May 6. A plan for mass contact, it is understood, was chalked out at the meeting of the Muslim League Provincial Parliamentary Board, which commenced this morning under the presidency of Nawab Mohamed Ismail Khan.

At the suggestion of Choudhury Kalluzzaman, it is understood, that the meeting decided that all 27 members of the Muslim League elected to the Legislative Assembly should raise Rs. 100 each for their respective constituencies and each member of the Working Committee of the Board similarly pay Rs. 530 each for the period of the next three months, with a view to carry on propaganda amongst the Muslim masses and to keep in close touch with them.

DISCIPLINARY ACTION

The meeting is further understood to have decided to take disciplinary action against members, who themselves contested, or helped others to contest the recent elections in opposition to the official League candidates, the names of about ten such persons were struck off the League rolls, while others were required to submit an explanation within a fortnight.

Other important items on the agenda were deferred till to-night's meeting when Mr. Jinnah will also be present.—A. P.

TARAKESWAR SHRINE Removal Of Present Receiver

CALCUTTA, May 6. The District Judge, Hoogly, has passed orders removing from office the present receiver of the Tarakeswar Shrine, Debottar Estate, as prayed for by the Bengal Brahmin Sabha and the former Mohun Satish Chandra Giri.

The allegations included mismanagement and corruption. The present receiver, however, will continue until a successor is appointed.—A. P.

KING SHOULD GIVE ASSURANCE

Indore Millionaire's Suggestion

BOMBAY, May 6. A correspondent wires from Ajmer that Rai Bahadur Seth Hirajlal Kalyanmal, a prominent Indore millionaire, in the course of an article for the "Central India and Rajputana Times" regarding the present political impasse, asks the British and the Indian Governments to see whether it would not be possible for his Imperial Majesty the King to broadcast a message to India on the Coronation Day and in the course of it repeat what Mr. Butler had said in the House of Commons regarding the Governors' assurances to the Congress in the six Provinces. The Congress, which demands assurances from the Governors and not the Parliament, would naturally be satisfied with the King embodying it in his message.

AROUND THE COURTS

BOMBAY, Thursday.

A verdict of accidental death was returned to-day, by the Bombay Coroner's jury, at the inquest on the body of a child named P. Varjeevandas, 2 years. The child fell down from the 3rd floor of Habib Terrace at Suparibagh Road yesterday.

"The accused had a quarrel with the complainant who is a frail woman and during its progress, he produced an iron pipe and struck at her. She stretched her arm to protect herself and 'sinned a fracture of the bones of the right fore-arm," was the representation made by the Bhowwada police before the Dadar Police Court to-day, in charging Joseph Daniel with causing grievous hurt.

The accused was bailed out till the 14th instant.

The inquest was opened to-day on a woman named Sarah Paul, who was found lying unconscious on the morning of the 28th April by the Assistant Secretary of the District Benevolent Society of Bombay.

It was stated that the deceased got suddenly ill. She was removed to J. J. Hospital, where she died on May 3.

Pending the report of the Chemical Analyst, the inquest was adjourned to May 18.

An inquest was held to-day on the body of a newly born female child, which was found lying near a garage at Chandan Wadi yesterday at about 8 a.m.

The body was wound up in gunny cloth with the head protruding. The police have not been able to trace the mother or the person who put the child there.

The jury returned a verdict of death caused by a person or persons unknown.

On a charge of receiving of sutta bets, Sahebuddin Panchi was arrested by Nagpada Police in his pan-shop, last night at about 10-30.

On receipt of information that he was accepting bets in his pan-shop in Haji Kassam Chawl, Grant Road, the Police raided the shop and arrested Sahebuddin. A sum of Rs. 13-11-9, including marked coins, slips and a pencil were seized from him.

As he could not furnish the bail offered to him and did not object to being in custody, he was remanded in police custody till May 20 at the Mazagaon Court to-day.

Sing Chu, a young Chinaman (26), working in a Chinese restaurant at Sukial Street, was sentenced to two months' rigorous imprisonment under Section 14, of the Dangerous Drugs Act, for possessing 135 grams of Cocaine, by Mr. R. Mathalone at the 6th Court, Mazagaon, yesterday.

Ebrahim Bawla, who stood charged with the murder of his brother Umar Bawla, was discharged to-day for want of sufficient evidence.

Umar Bawla was found murdered in his room in Kambekar Street in February last, his head being smashed with a curry stone. After some investigation, the Dongri Police arrested Ebrahim as he had suddenly disappeared from the house after the incident.

For want of sufficient evidence, he was ordered to be discharged by Mr. I. S. Haji at the Mazagaon Police Court to-day.

The confusion and din that prevails on arrival of No. 1 'Down' train at Dadar Station last night was, it is alleged, taken advantage of by Shankar Trikamdas, who thrust his hands into the pocket of a Marwadi passenger.

This was detected by a B. B. and C. I. Rly. constable Shankar hurried to Thakur Aurnmal, who was in a rear carriage of the train.

Both the persons who are stated to belong to Karachi were ordered to be released on bail in a sum of Rs. 30 till the 14th instant at the Dadar Police Court to-day, pending enquiries.

OUR READERS' VIEWS

The Inconsistent Mr. Jinnah

To The Editor of "The Chronicle"—Sir,—For a man of his undoubted abilities Mr. Jinnah has recently unburdened himself of some very muddled logic and some equally muddled statements.

It has become a sort of habit with him to start statements with the remark that if and when Congress takes office there will be little to choose between Congress aims and Muslim League aims, and to wind them up with the disclosure that there are "fundamental" differences between the two organisations. Either one or the other of his statements is correct. Either there is similarity of aim or there is not, but when these inconsistencies continue to pour out consistently (to my knowledge thrice within the month) from a man of his legal reputation, the suspicion arises that they are deliberate rather than accidental.

If one may hazard a guess, the claim that there is a unity of aims is undoubtedly a salvo to his love of political freedom (since Congress is wedded to that ideal) while his "volte face" about the "fundamental" differences is calculated to carve out and preserve for himself a political kingdom in which he will be sole and unquestioned leader. In his own words the Muslims are not prepared to be camp followers, and this undoubtedly expresses his own valuation of himself in the scheme of things—Yours etc.

POLITICAL INTROSPECTION

The Children's Aid Society

To The Editor of "The Chronicle"—Sir,—The Children's Aid Society at Umerkhadi needs to be put under Indian management at an early date.

The appointment of an Indian magistrate to the Juvenile Court has been a very welcome step. However, as the Society is the guiding factor in the Juvenile Court decisions, the root cause of discontent will not be removed till an Indian replaces the present Secretary and Superintendent of the Society. Looked at from any point of view there is no justification for a non-Indian being foisted on the public to be in charge of an institution of this kind. No British training, qualifications, certificates or long service are of any use for social work of this kind in India, until and unless the worker is an Indian with national sympathies.

The intricacies and traditional family life of India is unknown in the West and a non-Indian with Western training does more harm than good in this particular field. The present management of the Home is a challenge to Indian capability.

The Society instead of stabilising and modifying the probation work which is the main pivot of such institutions, is wasting money and time on utopian dreams of Western missionary ideals.

I feel that a public protest is imperative and organised protests from responsible bodies should be effective. No question of false prestige and individual consideration must come in the way. I shall welcome if the Society publishes the statistics of children sent to missionary homes and the ultimate fate of those whose terms expired in the missions.—Yours, etc.,

G. B. VELKAR, F.T.S.

Deccan Queen And "Flying Queen"

To The Editor of "The Chronicle"—Sir,—The travelling public are really interested to notice the growing rivalry between the two big Railway companies—the Deccan Queen and the Flying Queen.

(1) This rivalry began some years ago, when the B. & C. 1 started their Northern Express to Delhi via Nagda-Mutta route, and the N. W. R. timed their Delhi-Lahore service via Bhatinda to meet the B.B.'s Express at Delhi—both ways.

(2) This Northern Express soon caught the eye of the business public, as there was a distinct saving of three to four hours in the Bombay-Delhi run and back.

(3) It also attracted the attention of the military, and European people from Delhi and the Punjab.

(4) Hence, the Northern Express was converted, nay elevated, to the proud position of the Frontier Mail, which the G. I. P. had enjoyed for very many years.

(5) The G. I. P. still runs the Punjab Mail, though it never enters the Punjab!

(6) Flushed with success the B. & C. 1 under the able management of their acting G. T. M. Mr. Aldous, have resumed their old favourite Excursion Train between Bombay and Surat.

(7) And in response to public demand, Mr. Aldous has arranged for the earlier arrival of the train at the Central Station by 23 minutes.

(8) Office-going people will appreciate this saving of time, which can be further gained, if there is a fast local from Dadar to Church Gate connecting this train.

(9) This B. B. Excursion Train has just been christened as the "Flying Queen".

(10) Now which is better, brighter, or cheaper and speedier—the Deccan Queen or the Flying Queen?

(11) True to its name, the Deccan Queen is decidedly better and brighter—with its splendid carriages, cushion and restaurant car.

(12) The Flying Queen lacks the stateliness of a Queen, and should have been named as the Flying B.B. or the Flying Dasi. That would be so modest and so appropriate.

(13) The Deccan Queen is aristocratic, for it shuts out the poor third class passengers.

(14) The Flying Queen is democratic.

EASY WIN FOR ARMED POLICE
The second game in which the City Armed Police, who are fancied for the final honours, met the Cosmopolitans and accounted for them by 5 goals to 1.

The Police did the bulk of attacking in the first half as a result of which they were two goals up in the first twenty minutes, Shanker and Hamid II being responsible for the first and the second goal.

Corrie, the Cosmopolitan Right half-back reduced the winners' lead scoring a spectacular goal after a great solo effort and the Cosmopolitans were in arrears of one goal at half-time.

With the change of ends, the Police again dominated the exchanges and Abbas, their Left-wing, increased the lead scoring from an acute angle.

The Police continued pressing their opponents and Lazarus, their centre-forward, scored the fourth goal off a rebound from the goalkeeper's pads, while soon after Abbas netted the fifth and the last goal and the Police retired comfortable winners by 5 goals to 1.

PUBLIC SERVICE BAR TO CALCUTTA M.Sc.s

'Varsity Move For Recognition

CALCUTTA, May 6. It is understood that the Public Service Commission has declined to recognise the M.Sc. degree of Applied Physics at Calcutta University as sufficient qualification for Public Service.

The University, therefore, is contemplating requesting the Institution of Electrical Engineers in London, whose degree is accepted by the Commission, to recognise the Calcutta University Degree as a qualification for exemption from both parts of the graduation examination of the Institution, since the Calcutta degree course is in conformity with the standard of the Institution.—A. cratic, for it has accommodation for second and third class only.

(15) The Flying Queen is decidedly cheaper and speedier than the Deccan Queen, considering the fact that it is propelled by steam.

(16) It is high time for the G. I. P. Ry. to run their Deccan Queen with third class carriages and at lower rates like those of the Flying Queen. Will the Passengers' Association move in the matter?—Yours, etc.,

TAUNTON'S POPULARITY
Sir Jehangir said, the Municipal Act had already provided to raise the salary of the Municipal Commissioner to Rs. 3,500 p.m. The Municipal Commissioner had fully earned the increment. He was an impartial and fearless administrator and ex-Mayors like Mr. Nariman and Hon. Mr. Jamnadas Mehta had spoken about Mr. Taunton in high terms. Hon. Mr. Mehta had even said that the Commissioner was after his heart.

Rao Bahadur R. S. Asavie seconded the proposition.
Mr. Mathradas Tricumji opposed the proposition and moved an amendment to send the matter to the Municipal Commissioner for his remarks.
Mr. Mathradas said the municipal funds did not warrant any increase at the present time. There were ministers in other provinces who had more responsible work than the Municipal Commissioner and yet they got only Rs. 1,500 per month.
Mr. S. K. Faili seconded the amendment and said it was not the question of appreciation of the services of Mr. Taunton which they all wholeheartedly did, but one of finance.
Mr. K. F. Nariman also appreciated the services of Mr. Taunton as a very able officer but he thought as trustees of public funds they would not be justified in raising the salary of the Municipal Commissioner under the present state of finance.
Mr. M. R. Masani moved another amendment to record the letter of the government which enquired whether the Municipal Corporation would be prepared to raise the salary of Mr. Taunton to Rs. 3,500.

CITY FATHERS' DUTY
Mr. K. F. Nariman urged the House not to depend upon Government but as civic fathers to do their duty and frame a scheme of introducing free and primary education in the city.
Prof. V. G. Rao: The scheme is already there.
Mr. Nariman: Then bring it before the Corporation and I will support it even if it means to increase the general tax. He, therefore, moved an amendment which Sir J. B. Boman-Behram accepted as a rider to frame a scheme and place before the House at an early date.
Mr. E. R. Hirjibehdin agreed with Mr. Nariman and said it was no use depending upon puppet ministry for introduction of free and compulsory primary education. If anything is done at all, it would be done by popular and permanent ministry.
The amendment of Sir J. B. Boman-Behram was agreed to as a substantive proposition.
Sir J. B. Boman-Behram then moved to inform the government that the Municipal Corporation agreed to raise the salary of Mr. I. H. Taunton, Municipal Commissioner from Rs. 3,000 per month to Rs. 3,500 per month.

'PARLE OVER BRIDGE
Collector To Attend Municipal Board Meeting
(From Our Correspondent)
VILE PARLE, Thursday.
I understand that the Collector, Bombay Suburban District has again addressed another letter to the President Vile Parle Municipality on the over bridge tangle in which he is said to have asked certain categorical questions. The Municipal Board is asked to explain the circumstances under which the private market to the Marwari donor was sanctioned.
It would be of interest to the public to learn that the Com-

CORPORATION'S EXTRAVAGANT WAYS

Municipal Commissioner To Get Increased Salary

PRIMARY EDUCATION TO BE FREE AND COMPULSORY IN B AND E WARDS

With a huge majority the Bombay Municipal Corporation on Thursday approved the resolution of Sir J. B. Boman-Behram to raise the salary of Mr. I. H. Taunton, the Municipal Commissioner, from Rs. 3,000 to Rs. 3,500 per month.

There was opposition from the Nationalist group and two amendments were moved against the resolution but both were thrown out.

The House, however, wholeheartedly supported another resolution of Sir J. B. Boman-Behram for introduction of free and compulsory primary education in B and E Wards.

SCHOOLS COMMITTEE REPORT
Mr. M. M. Killedar, chairman of the Schools Committee moved to request the Mayor to inform the Government in effect of the report of the Schools Committee in regard to the introduction of free and compulsory education in B and E Wards.

WHAT CENSUS COSTS
The Schools Committee assessed Rs. 10,000 for taking census of school-going children.

Sir J. B. Boman-Behram moved his resolution which he had tabled before as an amendment.

That in view of the declared policy of the Government of Bombay to extend Primary Education all over the Presidency, His Worship the Mayor be requested to invite the attention of Government to the President's letter No. 9448, dated the 23rd January 1936, and to request them as desired therein to accord sanction at an early date to the extension of Free and Compulsory Primary Education in B and E Wards of the City and to provide adequate funds for the same in the current year's Budget, thus helping the Corporation in removing to some extent illiteracy prevailing among the masses.

Sir Jehangir said so far the Government did not help the Municipal Corporation for want of funds but now they had popular Ministers and the Hon. Finance Minister was sympathetic towards primary education. As a matter of fact, one of the items of the programme was the introduction of free and compulsory education in the presidency and he thought that the Corporation now should approach the Government for this purpose.
Mr. Mohanlal M. Desai also thought that the time was now opportune to approach the Government.

Mr. E. R. Hirjibehdin suggested to give increase to the poor employees first before they gave to the Municipal Commissioner.
Mr. M. A. Karanjawala supported the original proposition and said the Standing Committee and the Corporation had agreed to raise the salary of the Municipal Commissioner before.

Dr. G. V. Deshmukh said in the appointment of the Municipal Commissioner there was no choice but for the increase in the salary the Corporation was consulted. It was true that Mr. Nariman and the Hon. Mr. Jamnadas Mehta had eulogised the services of the Municipal Commissioner but he wanted to know of any commissioner in the past whose services were not appreciated.
Sir H. P. Mody said there was not any office in the whole presidency which carried so much responsibility and onerous duties as the office of the Municipal Commissioner. There was no comparison between ministers and Municipal Commissioner. In England Lord Ashley was paid £20,000 while the ministers were paid £4,000 or £5,000. In New York, the city of gold, the ministers got less than municipal executives. The responsibility of the Municipal Commissioner was so heavy that he doubted if any capable gentleman in Bombay would like to accept it for even Rs. 10,500 per month. At least he (speaker) would not.
At this stage closure was moved and the amendment of Mr. M. R. Masani was taken to a division. It was declared lost as only 16 voted for it 47 against it. Mr. Mathradas Tricumji's amendment was also thrown out by show of hands and the original proposition was carried by an overwhelming majority.

TALK OF THE SUBURBS

(BY A SUBURBAN MAN)

On Wednesday, the Bombay East Indian Association's Golden Jubilee, fete closed with the final attendance of a pretty good crowd. This fete was opened on April 24, and was scheduled to close on May 2, but being so well patronised it was extended to another three days. At a glance hardly any one will deny that this fete was not very well patronised. The cause being a very good one, our generous public did their utmost towards its success.

Now I think the Bombay East Indians' dream has been realised, and I hope there will have an industrial school of their own before long.

PARLE BOARD MEETING
I am told to-morrow's meeting of the Vile Parle Municipal Board is to prove very interesting.

It will be recalled that papers in connection with the bridge controversy were submitted to the Collector of Bombay Suburban District. This was done to comply with his inquiries. The whole controversy seemed then to be at an end, but I am told this is not going to be so, for to-morrow's meeting shows every possibility of a revival of the question regarding the site for the building of this foot-bridge out of the Marwari's donation and also a site for a bridge to be erected out of the public money. This question is to be raised as the President of the General Board has received a letter from a solicitor on behalf of certain residents.

This letter suggests that the bridge should be erected in order to connect Nehru Road and Church Road instead of near the existing railway bridge.

The meeting I understand is also to confirm the details settled about the new hospital to be erected.

PRIZE DISTRIBUTION AT WADALA

St. Joseph's English Parish School, Wadala, recently held their annual prize distribution in the presence of the Rt. Rev. C. Ghezzi, Administrator of the Archdiocese of Bombay.

The school has shown rapid progress since its inception, and the number of students has increased to a very large extent, this is due to the untiring efforts of their Principals Rev. A. Fernandes and his competent staff.

Mr. Ghezzi, paid tributes to the Principal and the parishioners and hoped that before long the institution would attain the status of a high school.

The children went through a long and interesting sports programme of 18 items.

Three Thousand Workers Enjoy Cinema Show

(From A Correspondent)

The tennis courts of the Jacob Sassoon Mills, Lalbaug, were thronged with mill workers on Friday night, an audience which would make any cinema proprietor envious, when Capt. S. Jepsen of the newly formed Amateur Cine Group showed 16 m.m. cinema films depicting rural life in India and the life of the Bhil tribes. This was the first occasion when such a programme was arranged for mass education through films.

The programme was fixed up by Mrs. E. Currumbhoy of the Social Service League with the co-operation of the mill authorities. The films were explained to the audience in Marathi with the help of a loud speaker by Mr. M. Desai. The programme ended after a few songs by Mrs. Javeri and her pupils.

Thin, Rundown, Weak Nervous!

How MINERALS and FOOD IODINE Build Thin, Worn-Out, ill, Nervous People into Strong, Red-Blooded Men and Women.

'Vikelp' Tablets—amazing new mineral concentrate from the sea—richest source of natural FOOD IODINE and MINERALS—feeds starved glands—must build rich, red blood, rejuvenates the body, put on pounds of solid 'stay-there' flesh, give steady nerves, and day-long energy without the use of drugs.

Thousands of even "naturally thin," weak, worn-out, run-down, haggard-looking men and women whose energy and strength have been sapped by over-work and worry—who are nervous, irritable, always half-sick and ailing, hardly realise that the underlying cause of their trouble is—FOOD IODINE & MINERAL STARVED GLANDS. Medical Science knows now that when the glands, particularly the Thyroid (and other tiny, hidden glands which control weight and strength) lack ordinary chemical iodine or iodine found in health and proper body development, even the most wholesome food fails to add weight and produce strength and energy or build up resistance against illness. (This iodine must not be confused with ordinary chemical iodine or iodine found in health and proper body development, even the most wholesome food fails to add weight and produce strength and energy or build up resistance against illness.)

"Vikelp" Tablets are made from a remarkable Pacific Ocean plant, recognized to be the world's richest source of the 12 MINERALS and FOOD IODINE demanded by the body—yet so easily lacking in our ordinary daily diet. Moreover, they supply these precious substances in natural assimilable form. This re-mineralisation process stimulates the glands which produce the juices that enable you to digest the weight-making elements in food. Resistance is built up against malaria—faulty metabolism, constipation, gastritis, goitre, rheumatism, nervousness and systemic ailments are relieved or disappear entirely. Join the 4,000,000 people in 47 countries who are taking "VIKELP" Tablets.

Notice how it makes you feel wonderful, eat, sleep and work better—increases vitality and vigour. Watch flattering pounds appear in place of scrawny hollows.

WIDENING GULF

Few will be surprised at Lord Zetland's reply in the Lords to Lord Snell's question whether a meeting could not be arranged between Gandhiji and the Viceroy. It is such as was only to be expected from an unimaginative and narrow-minded Government. He has turned down the suggestion on various grounds. First, he says that it is impossible to devise a quasi-legal formula regulating the varied and changing relationships between the Governor and his Ministry and that if such a formula were possible, it would have been embodied in the Act. Secondly, he repeats his contention that it is impossible for the Governors to divest themselves of the obligations imposed upon them by the Act. Thirdly, he fears that once they give the assurance demanded by the Congress, it would inevitably lead to differences in interpretation in particular cases and consequently to charges of breach of faith. Finally, he argues that Governors are not expected or likely to abuse their special powers, that is, use them ordinarily and that, therefore, a special assurance is not at all necessary. In short, the British Government still refuse, for one reason or other, to give the assurance demanded by the Congress. Lord Zetland even ventures to hope that, encouraged by "the object-lesson provided by the actual working of the Constitution in their midst", the Congress will give up its demand and accept office unconditionally. Except that Lord Zetland's speech this time is not offensive in its tone, it does not take one a single step towards a settlement with the Congress.

Object-Lesson Indeed!

The grounds urged by Lord Zetland for not giving the assurance demanded by the Congress are not new and may, therefore, be dismissed briefly. The pica is untenable that it is impossible to devise a precise enough formula governing the changing relations between the Governors and the Ministers. The formula suggested by Gandhiji and endorsed by the Congress Working Committee, that the Governor must either accept the Minister's advice or dismiss them, is, besides being just, admirably clear, proof against conflicting interpretations and puts to a crucial test the professed intention of Parliament that the Governors will not ordinarily use their special powers. However, why discuss the difficulty of devising a workable formula when the Governors refuse to divest themselves of any of their powers? That refusal is at least a straightforward way of dealing with the Congress. The same cannot be said of the tortuous plea that an assurance is not at all necessary, that even now the Governor's conduct is an object-lesson in conciliatory and accommodating policy. Why not take the Congress and the public a little more seriously? Here are the Governors, who set up minority ministries doing violence to the most elementary principles of responsible government. And they refuse even to summon the legislatures. Yet Lord Zetland would have Indians believe that the conduct of these Governors is an object-lesson to the Congress in all that is fair and reasonable. Object-lesson indeed! It is certainly one, but of a different kind from the one Lord Zetland has in mind. It is an object-lesson all too familiar to India.

No Compromise

The public have not been slow to profit by the object-lesson. The Governors and their Ministers, who fondly hoped that their varied efforts to undermine the influence of the Congress would bear fruit, have now reason to be disillusioned. In Madras, for instance, 167 out of the 215 members of the Legislative Assembly and 30 out of the 54 members of the Legislative Council have forwarded to the Governor a communication denouncing the Ministry he formed; and this fact, considering that the signatories include several non-Congressmen also, demonstrates, in the words of the "Madras Mail", that the "anticipation of a break-up of the Congress majority show no signs of being fulfilled." On the contrary, as the same paper points out, "the results of the Malabar District Board elections show, that the Congress Party's refusal of office had not, so far, lost it any apparent measure of public support. The fact that so many of the Party's candidates were elected to the Board unopposed indicates that organized opposition to the Party has almost wholly, if not completely, collapsed." The same is true of other provinces where the Congress majorities are being flouted and sought to be broken by the Governors and their minority ministries. The latter's tactics are only widening the gulf between the British Government and the Congress. If Lord Zetland is not prepared to bridge it, the Congress is ever ready to take up the challenge. As Gandhiji points out in the latest interview he has given to the "Associated Press", Congress leaders refuse to be treated as petitioners for the favour of office. Gandhiji does well to make it clear that Congress is only beginning to exercise complete independence, though at present in a limited sphere. In that sphere it will not brook any interference from Governors. And there can be no compromise on this issue.

Dehlavi Explains

In a speech at Surat Sir A. M. K. Dehlavi is reported to have explained, and, incidentally, revised, some of his previous statements. We are glad that his last statement "never aimed at going against the Congress demand from the Governors." Equally welcome is his abandonment—although he does not say so clearly—of his deplorable charge that, according to Pandit Jawaharlal Nehru, there were two parties "Hindus and Government." He has now changed them into "the Congress and the Imperialist interests." But he objects to this "doctrine" of the President that there are "only two parties to be considered." Now, Sir A. M. K. Dehlavi either accepts "Imperialist interests" or he does not. If he does, there is nothing more to say about it. If he does then "Imperialist interests" are a party vis-à-vis Indians as such. Mussalmans are not a third party, but an integral part of the second party. For, otherwise they would become, in practice, allies of Imperialism.

And in theory too. This is clear from Sir A. M. K. Dehlavi's own insistence on a separate independent identity, in the political field, of the Muslims, which involves the doctrine of dual sovereignty. And since dualism must inevitably result in conflict it involves the controlling influence of a super-sovereignty; in other words, perpetuation of British Imperialism. Sir A. M. K. Dehlavi ought, we think, to read the Congress President's statements again and again and with care, and he may possibly revise his views still further. By the way, Sir A. M. K. Dehlavi—we dare say, he has not consulted his leader—says: "As far as the Muslims are concerned, their secular affairs cannot be separated from religion." This statement, whether unconsciously or otherwise, is too vague and general for comment. But one question does occur to us. Where was this doctrine when Sir A. M. K. Dehlavi and leaders like him were co-operating directly and indirectly with British Imperialism?

Gleanings From The World Press

(By Our London Correspondent.)

A movement is in progress to present both Houses of Parliament at Westminster a petition that the King should assume the historic title of King of Jerusalem.

Britain's trusteeship of the Holy Land is the reason for this movement. It is believed that the petition will be laid before Parliament some ten days after the Coronation.

Before the war the title "King of Jerusalem" was held by the Austrian Emperors.

Exploiting The Public
A member of a firm which is a large manufacturer of the small cotton flags now much in evidence in England says that these were intended to be sold to the public at one penny.

This price would have allowed approximately a profit of 100 per cent., which was reasonable considering the special nature of the trade. Yet he had just seen the self-same flag being retailed at 1s. 9d.—a profit of 4,100 per cent. This, he admitted, was exceptional. But he said that they were commonly priced at 6d., which gave 1,100 per cent. profit. His comment that this is an unscrupulous exploitation of the public at a time of national rejoicing is unanswerable.

The flag is the Union Jack.

Windsor and Censor

It is not only unimportant people like artists, writers and trade unionists who find their activities banned by unofficial censors.

According to the Sydney "Daily Telegraph" there is a "gentleman's agreement" between the Downing Street and the Dominions to keep the Duke of Windsor off the films. In Australia the censor of films has just banned a news reel showing the Duke of Windsor skiing in Austria. Records of his farewell speech on the wireless are also banned.

Says the Sydney "Telegraph": "They ban his pictures whenever they can. Films of his activities are banned like bits from 'Mae West' film. He is an exile from England. They want him exiled from the memory of the British people."

And to make the situation still more complicated, the Duke of Windsor, whose solicitors are demanding the withdrawal of Geoffrey Dennis's book, "Coronation Commentary", has already succeeded in having that work unofficially banned by the libraries and many booksellers. When you ask for it you are told that for the moment it cannot be supplied. So everybody concerned in this matter seems to be banning everybody else, and the rest of us—by other words, the public—are considered to have no claims to be allowed to see what we like or to read what we should be legally entitled to read.

"Elephant Dance"
To-morrow (Thursday April 29) "Elephant Dance" will be out to complement the film called "Elephant Boy", which delights everyone who sees it.

One of the spectacles of the film is the elephants dancing, and already we have had a M.P. without a sense of humour telling the House of Commons that elephants do not dance and that it must be a take!

The book will tell us just how the dance was done, and more. Its author is Mrs. Flaherty, wife of the film's famous producer, and she will recount the encounters and adventures in the State of Mysore during the making of the pictures.

Indo-British Trade Agreement

Indian Advisers' Duty To Safeguard India's Right Of Industrialisation

Negotiations for the new Trade Agreement between the United Kingdom and India are to commence in London towards the end of June and the unofficial advisers are shortly proceeding to England for the purpose. If the errors of the Ottawa Agreement and the Indo-British Trade Agreement of 1935 are not to be repeated in this instance, it is essential for the Indian public and the Indian commercial community to focus their attention on some of the fundamental principles which should be kept in view during the forthcoming negotiations and which should be insisted upon by the Indian non-official advisers, especially those representing Indian commercial and industrial interests.

Expediting It
The Federation of Indian Chambers of Commerce and Industry, at their last annual session in Delhi, passed a comprehensive resolution on the subject emphasising certain broad principles in connection with the new Trade Agreement. It is essential to recapitulate the salient points of this question in order to clarify the issues. Apart from the fact that the "advisers" are not full fledged delegates, as at Ottawa, and that the venue of negotiations is London instead of Delhi it is necessary to point out that the extension of the Ottawa Agreement, even after the expiry of its notice period and despite the decision of the Assembly to terminate it along with the differential duties on British steel and textiles, continue to secure automatically the existing advantages for British industries even while the new Trade Agreement is under negotiation. While the position of the United Kingdom is thus safeguarded, Britain itself did not hesitate to remove the import duty on pig iron when it found it necessary in its own interests. It is hoped that the period of negotiations will not be ordinarily extended and that the present interim arrangement will not continue a day longer than absolutely necessary.

One-Sided Affair
It is undeniable that, under existing conditions, any Trade Agreement between England and India is bound to be of an unequal character because the political relationship would weigh the scales heavily in favour of England. Every trade preference given to Great Britain will be eventually stereotyped into a trade privilege whose permanence in the Indian fiscal system will be ensured by a relative guarantee or reservation in the Constitution. If non-Indian vested interests are permitted to be established under the shelter of a trade agreement, they would necessarily ask for constitutional safeguards for their protection. The Ottawa Agreement, for instance, was followed by the Indo-British Trade Agreement of 1935, which sought to stabilise the trading advantages of Great Britain and thereby effectively restrict the fiscal autonomy of India. Similarly, reciprocity is no longer a matter of mutual goodwill or bilateral arrangement but has become an integral part of the safeguards in the new Constitution as evidenced by Sections 113 to 118 of the Government of India Act. In any impartial examination of the economic relationship or trade agreement between Britain and India, the political factor is so predominant that it cannot be ignored. Indeed, as Mr. Ferrell the ex-President of the United States Steel Corporation, declared only the other day, "the British preferential system is political in origin."

Three Principles
With this vital qualification regarding the fundamental political conditions which determine our economic relationship with England, there are three broad principles which should underlie any trade pact with Britain. In the first place, the whole of India's foreign trade should be taken into account and not merely its "visible" trade with the United Kingdom. Secondly, India's external obligations and liabilities should be set against her external pact with Great Britain. And, thirdly, no arrangement should be entered into which would adversely affect the growth of industrialisation in this country.

India's Claims
As regards India's foreign trade, the whole question should be considered not in a piecemeal manner as is often done in order to provide some immediate or temporary benefit to British industries in dollops but in a comprehensive manner so as to co-ordinate India's economic development with its export trade, on the one hand, and its external obligations on the other. This was one of the positive weaknesses of the Ottawa Agreement, which, being based on the objective of organising the British Empire as a distinct economic unit, endeavoured to keep the raw materials of the Empire within the Empire. There is no reason why India should be involved in this political entanglement which at best is artificial and at worst might be against the real interests of the country. The vital interests of India require that she should have a market wider than the restricted market of the Empire. The very nature of India's export trade makes it imperative that a trade agreement with England should not be such as to jeopardise India's trade with the various non-Empire countries which have been in several respects its best customers or to weaken her bargaining power vis-à-vis other countries, while leaving her open to the possibility of being outwitted by them.

START NEGOTIATIONS AT ONCE
In a none too early communication on the Poona Temple dispute the Government of Bombay propose "to take the earliest opportunity of examining the whole question in co-operation with all the interests affected so that an agreed settlement may, if possible, be reached." As there has already been undue delay in starting negotiations for a settlement, Government should move at once in the matter. If they hold the scales evenly and show they are determined to effect a settlement, there is every chance of a satisfactory settlement being reached. It will be a great help to the negotiations if the Magistrate's order is withdrawn or the Satyagraha suspended. Finally, the less the Governor moves in the matter, the better for all concerned. Let all beware of the occasion being exploited to bolster up the position of the Governor as the champion of the rights of minorities.

A GOVERNOR SNUBBED.
The Ceylon State Council has administered a very well-deserved snub to the Governor of the Colony for his autocratic and unconstitutional action in passing expulsion orders upon Mr. M. A. Bracegirdle. The incident proves that even the Ceylon Constitution, though it has failed to satisfy our Sinhalese brethren, is based upon more democratic lines than the much-boasted Government of India Act of 1935. The statement given by the Chief Secretary in defence of the Council orders served upon Mr. Bracegirdle, cut little ice with the Council and the very fact that the Council and the Ceylon Government were not even consulted in this matter, gives a revealing insight into civilian psychology. In the circumstances the Council has taken the only self-respecting step in advising the Council to revoke the unconstitutional order and also to take steps to rescind the Order-in-Council, under which the Governor had acted. We congratulate the Ceylon legislators upon this bold and courageous stand in vindication of their rights.

THE CHEEK OF IT.
Italian and German methods and their sense of humanitarian obligations are so well-known that one can only admire the cheek of Herr von Ribbentrop who is reported to have protested to Captain Anthony against "incorrect and tendentious allegations made in parts of the British press and in the House of Commons with reference to the alleged destruction of Guernica." The irony of the temerity is that von Ribbentrop is reported to have cited the testimony of other foreign news agencies and even witnesses! Who and what were they? Italian, German or Portuguese? "German circles" do not seem to have given any information on this unimportant subject. The fact is that neither Fascism nor Nazism recognises any moral laws, let alone obligations. And if it can be brutal to humanity it can more easily be brutal to truth too.

FRANKLY SPEAKING

A "MOVING" SPEECH

A week before the Coronation Britain is faced with the possibility of a grave crisis, to say nothing of the London Bus strike which is already going on. The British miners have not only actually given notice of a strike but they have completed preparations for a national stoppage if justice is not done to them. In the meantime Mr. Baldwin has made his characteristic contribution to a settlement in the shape of a "moving" appeal for peace. Mr. Baldwin always makes "moving" speeches. And since the last was also his swan-song it must perforce have sounded even more than moving. The appeal for peace which he made in the name of "Democracy"—Mr. Baldwin didn't blush to conjure that name—was addressed with the authority of the British Government to "the handful of men with whom industrial peace rests" which, we presume, means the owners. If the owners are wise they would take the "moving" hint as coming from a man of their own class and, therefore, as something unavoidably inevitable. But we wish Mr. Baldwin had made a similar appeal to the bus owners. It is obvious that the busmen have been forced into a strike. It is obvious for the simple reason that their leader, Mr. Bevin, is a typical Labour leader, British patriot and statesman first and labourite afterwards. If he has defied the Capitalists and on the very eve of the Coronation it must be because there was no other alternative for the workers. Mr. Baldwin, however, did not refer to that strike. That was because the bus strike is merely a question of justice, while the situation in the mining industry is that a summary rejection of the miners' demand would injure the owning class too. Some surrender, "some face-saving", as Mr. Baldwin says, would be necessary.

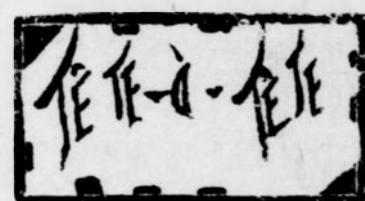

THE ROME-BERLIN AXIS
The communique issued after Baron von Neurath's conversations with Count Ciano and Signor Mussolini is couched, as usual, in general language. But in the setting of recent events and development in which these conversations were held a more realistic meaning is given to "close parallelism of interests," "identity of aims" and "determination of the two Governments to continue to follow a concordant policy in all major questions." In a word "the Rome-Berlin Axis" is a grim reality. Differences have been composed for a common purpose. And the common purpose of International Fascism is well-known. It is in the pursuit of this common purpose that Spain has been plunged into her present plight and Eastern Europe is faced with a menace. But International Democracy still persists in avoiding the danger to peace and Democracy by surrendering ground after ground to Fascism and militarism. Whether or no it is "a re-affirmation of the Berlin-Rome axis," Italy has declared her intention of increasing her naval power, for, among other things, her "expansion." The meaning is obvious. But so-called "Democracy" refuses to face it.

Our Italics

An early increase in Italian Naval Power was foreshadowed by the Under-Secretary for Navy who declared in the Chamber: "Italy will make in the near future necessary efforts to have her Navy commensurate with the importance of its vital functions, its defence expansion and prestige in the world.—Reuter."

"Rome-Berlin Axis" Reaffirmed

The important point is whether it remains where it was—facing Spain—or is revolving round itself Eastwards.

Mr. Baldwin's last speech in the House of Commons was, according to Reuter, a characteristic appeal for peace.

"Characteristic" means, of course, typically, Baldwinesque. And it was.

"Mr. Baldwin, in a homely, stressed the responsibility of leaders under Democracy at which totalitarian nations scoffed."

Responsibility as it is being discharged in regard to Spain, the North-West Frontier of India, Lawless laws, etc.

No. The totalitarian States mustn't scuff. It's highly improper on their part.

Baldwin's appeal for the practice of arts of peace naturally brings us to their practice in Bengal, where Mr. Fazlul Haq is proving so convincingly his affirmation that the new regime has ushered in "British Raj".

The new strikes, says Mr. Haq, are admittedly being used by Communists leaders to pave the way for a revolution in India.

Admittedly, that is, by the Government and the Owners' Association?

Any way, Mr. J. D. Jenkins, the "Bombay Press Service" (whatever it is) and such others interested in altruistically fighting revolution for the sake of poor menaced India must immediately get into touch with the Hon. Mr. Haq.

"There has not been anything like a real economic basis for these strikes."

The time, we hope, is coming for Mr. Fazlul Haq also to declare that there had not been anything like a real economic basis for the Proja Party agrarian demands. And, so far as Mr. Haq is concerned, he would be quite right.

Pandit Jawaharlal "is very much mistaken" if, as Mr. Fazlul Haq believes, he thinks that the Bengal Ministry can be broken "by abusing me (!!!) and exposing me to ridicule and humiliation."

Mr. Haq, although he is wrong about Jawaharlal is quite right, though, when he declares that he is proof against ridicule and humiliation. It is a historical Haq, we mean, truth.

By the way, we rather like Mr. Fazlul Haq thumping his chest and proudly proclaiming his gallant and undaunted consistency. It is a joke which only consistent men (ye gods) like Mr. Haq can be capable of.

But we do sympathise with the Proja Party.

Efforts, says a Cawnpore message, are being made by the District Muslim League to carry on propaganda in favour of Khaddar among Muslims.

This danger must be immediately choked at its source lest it spread and reach the Council of the All-India Muslim League.

Meanwhile, Hitler, is being guarded more strictly than ever, and his movements are now never announced beforehand.

Japanese National Anthem
The presence of Prince and Princess Chichibu of Japan at Twickenham on April 24, caused a flutter in official circles.

It resulted in the unusual spectacle of 25,000 people standing to attention while, for the first time in Rugby Union history, the Japanese National anthem was relayed by loud speaker from a gramophone.

The Prince and Princess arrived with Prince Arthur of Connaught during the interval in one of the matches in the Midlands seven-a-side tournament. Several of the more exhausted players were lying on the ground and two were chucking the ball about. It was some time before the crowd realised what was happening. Luckily the Japanese National anthem is considerably longer than the British National anthem and is played adagio. So before its strains came to an end Japan, in the person of the brother of the Emperor, was suitably honoured by Rugby fans.

400 COTTAGES GUTTED

JUBBULPORE, May 6. Four lives were lost and over 400 cottages destroyed by a devastating fire which broke out this noon in the labour colony, Cherital.

It is stated that the fire originated at a deserted thatched cottage at about 2 p.m. and due to the death of water, late arrival of the fire brigade and rotten conditions of houses soon enveloped the whole locality including the labour and Harijan colony. Over 1,000 persons including children and invalids were rendered homeless.

Among the victims were three young children and one cow. The fire was still smouldering at the time of wiring.—United Press.

NO STRIKE OF TROLLEY MEN

12,000 Workers Accept Bevin's Proposal To Stay In LONDON, May 5. Fears of extension of London Bus Strike were allayed by an announcement that Mr. Bevin on behalf of the Executive Council of Transport Workers Union has instructed tramwaymen and trolley busmen to remain at work.

Representatives of 12,000 London tram and trolley busmen decided to accept advice of Mr. Bevin to remain at work. It is stated authoritatively on behalf of the men that there is unlikely to be a stoppage anyhow during the next few days.

PROSPECT OF ENDING BUS STRIKE

LONDON, May 6. Hopes that the bus strike would soon end heartened Londoners walking to work to-day, the sixth business day.

The hope was based on the announcement that it is possible that the Court of Inquiry may present an "interim" report to the Minister of Labour later to-day. This will be followed, it is believed, by negotiations with a view to resuming the bus services as soon as possible, perhaps for the Coronation.

Meanwhile provincial busmen, many of whom have been striking for a fortnight, decided at a delegate meeting in London to recommend that the branches affected empower the Union to arrange collective resumption of work on Saturday, provided that there be an attempt to improve the national conditions and there be negotiations on outstanding complaints.—Reuter's Special.

COAL MINES DISPUTE

Hopes Of Settlement

LONDON, May 5. Hopes of settlement of coal-mines dispute are raised by news that Executive of Miners' Federation has been summoned to London to meet the Minister of Mines. It is hoped that as a result of the meeting a new scheme will be proposed to enable the principle of fusion of two Unions over which dispute has arisen to be agreed upon.

Following acceptance of principle, it is expected, a court of arbitration would be established to decide terms of fusion and this will enable miners to suspend strike notices and if findings of court are accepted notices will be finally withdrawn.—Reuter.

Seducing People From Loyalty To Congress

Sardar Patel Exposes Interim Ministers' Tactics

MADRAS, May 5. Sardar Vallabhbhai Patel, Chairman of the All-India Congress Parliamentary Sub-Committee, has issued the following statement: "The public will be glad to know that efforts on the part of the so-called 'interim' Ministers to tamper with the loyalty of Congress Members of the Legislatures have utterly failed. The brave and noble resistance of Bihar Harijan members to the temptations offered by the Minister has been appreciated publicly by Mahatmaji.

SEDUCTIVE TACTICS EXPOSED

"When Mr. Rajagopalachari was in Mangalore on the 21st March, he was informed that some Congress members of the Madras Assembly had been approached by Mr. R. M. Palat, one of the members of the 'Interim' Council of Ministers in Madras. Mr. A. B. Shetty gave him a detailed account of what had happened. "A letter was thereupon addressed by Mr. Shetty to Mr. Palat which, with the subsequent correspondence, will speak for itself. Mr. Shetty has been a member of the Madras Legislative Council for many years past and he was returned on the Congress ticket at the last general election. It will be noticed that Mr. Palat does not contradict the statement of facts in Mr. Shetty's letter, but claims merely that such conversations should not be published.

"The rule that ordinarily saves private conversations from publication cannot apply to attempts to seduce people from their loyalties or any steps taken to injure public causes. The wrong doer cannot claim any privilege of not being exposed when his efforts fail.

"I have, therefore, decided to publish Mr. Shetty's correspondence in order to expose the disruptive tactics to which these Ministers descend to retain the offices they have taken evidently not to serve the public, but to serve themselves"—United Press.

CONGRESSMEN DISCHARGED

No Prima Facie Case Had Been Made Out, Says Magistrate

LAHORE, May 6. Sardar Atmasingh, a prominent Congress leader of Sheikhupura and the President of the Sheikhupura Municipal Committee, his brother Santokhsingh and two others, were standing trial under section 307 I.P.C. (attempt to murder), were discharged to-day by the Special Magistrate.

The prosecution alleged that the accused made a murderous assault on one Gianchand, a shopkeeper of Sheikhupura, because the latter refused to contribute on the occasion of the Congress Silver Jubilee.

The case was originally filed in Sheikhupura but was transferred to Lahore on an application by the accused in the High Court.

In discharging the accused, the Magistrate held that no "prima facie" case had been made out, and also remarked that it appeared to him that the sub-inspector of police had brought the case against the accused out of enmity.—A. P.

CHATTARI BLAMES MAJORITY PARTY

Postponement Of Assembly Session Is Chance To Congress, He Says

LUCKNOW, May 6. "The main consideration in favour of postponement of the summoning of the U. P. Legislative Assembly, which appeals to me is that it gives a chance to the Majority Party to reconsider its decision and explore all possible avenues for ending the deadlock. In the best interests of the country it is to my mind unwise unduly to precipitate matters," says the Nawab of Chhattari, Chief Minister of the U. P., in the course of a reply on behalf of himself and his colleagues to Pt. Govind Ballabh Pant's invitation to attend a Conference of the members of the Legislative Assembly to be convened on May 9 and 10, when it is proposed to record a protest against the Governor's not summoning immediately a meeting of the Assembly as done in other provinces.

MAJORITY TO BLAME

The Chief Minister adds: "It is true that some Legislatures have been summoned to meet, but only in provinces, where the Majority Party, either on its own strength or in coalition with other parties, accepted office. The U. P. Assembly has not been summoned clearly on account of the refusal of the majority party to accept office."

The Nawab of Chhattari concludes: "Already in my statement I have emphasised the fact that on the verdict of our people at the polls it is your right and privilege to form the Government and I shall at all times be ready and indeed anxious to make room for you, whenever you decide to take up the burden of office."

Under the present circumstances of the Government, I do not think the elected members will be allowed to render effective service to their constituencies at the meetings of the Legislature"—A. P.

Govt. Move To End Poona Temple Dispute

Appeal To Call Off Satyagraha

MAGISTRATE'S ORDER EXPLAINED

Proposed Peace Parleys With Rival Parties For Agreed Settlement

BOMBAY, Thursday. The situation created by the Order of the District Magistrate of Poona regarding the Sonya Maruti Temple and the subsequent Satyagraha that has been going on is being considered by the Council of Ministers, Government of Bombay.

Lord Brabourne, the Governor was acquainted this morning with the facts and the situation by Sir Dhunjishah Cooper, the Chief Minister and Mr. Jamnadas Mehta, the Finance and Revenue Minister. These two Ministers were closeted with the Governor for more than half an hour when the whole situation was discussed.

The Council of Ministers is meeting in the afternoon when a decision on the question is expected to be taken. In all probability the order of the District Magistrate might be modified, in a way that it is hoped will pacify the situation.

It appears that the Cabinet will look at the whole question from the point of view of citizens' rights and not from a communal point of view. It is stated that the District Magistrate's Order affects the fundamental right of the citizens. They are Hindus, Muslims or any other community members. Citizens have a right to the use of the road.

Secondly, it is stated that the District Magistrate did not ascertain the facts. It is stated that the Cabinet might decide upon amending the Order.

Both the Commissioner of the Central Division and the Collector of Poona came to Bombay and had a long interview with the Council of Ministers. Besides the Chief Ministers who is in charge of the portfolio in question, the three other ministers were also present and acquainted themselves with the facts of situation, which were today conveyed to the Governor.

Whatever the decision on the Sonya Maruti Temple question, it will be unanimous, in that the Minister who does not agree with the decision of the majority will agree to the decision of the majority though he might have definite views on the question, which are opposed to the majority view.

OFFICIAL COMMUNIQUE

After the Chief Minister and the Finance Minister had about half an hour's interview with Lord Brabourne, the Council of Ministers, who had been considering the Sonya Maruti Temple question, for the last two days, met to take final decision as to what the Government should do in the matter. They discussed the question in the light of what had transpired at the interview of the Chief and the Finance Ministers with the Governor. Though no definite decision on the question was taken by the Council of Ministers at the meeting which lasted for about an hour, they decided to explain to the public their attitude towards the situation in Poona created by the Prohibitory Order by the District Magistrate. The Cabinet will hold enquiries and find out how the situation can be met, to the satisfaction of all concerned. In the meanwhile the following communique has been issued explaining the position on the Government.

The communique says:— "Government have considered the situation arising out of the District Magistrate's order prohibiting music in the neighbourhood of the Sonya Maruti Temple situated on the Laxmi Road in Poona city during this year's Hanuman Jayanti and festival."

It will be recalled that serious disturbances broke out during the festival last year in connection with the playing of music before this Temple, resulting in rioting, murder and arson in various parts of the City. Following those disturbances the local authorities have continued to impress upon the interested parties and on the City Municipality the necessity for reaching an equitable settlement. Unfortunately agreement was not reached and, in the circumstances, the District Magistrate was unable to grant the application of the Trustees of the Temple to celebrate the festival this year.

Government are aware that the Trustees and the worshippers of the Temple feel aggrieved by the order of the District Magistrate, which they regard as interfering in the performance of their religious rites, but they desire to make it clear that this order does not and could not determine the rights of any party. Emergent action was necessary in the interests of public peace.

Government, however, realise that a permanent settlement is urgent and necessary and they propose therefore to take the earliest opportunity of examining the whole question in co-operation with all the interests affected so that an agreed settlement may, if possible, be reached.

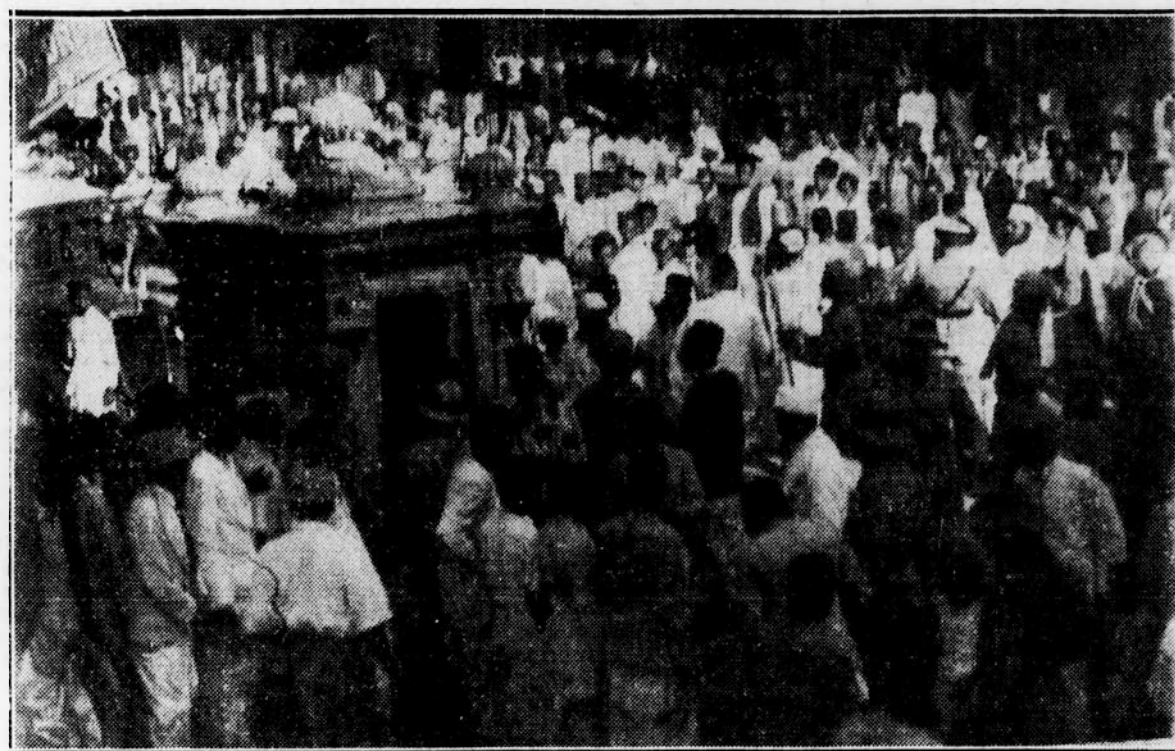

If their efforts are not successful, it will be necessary for them to come to their own conclusions as to the merits of the dispute and to assure to all concerned such rights and privileges as may be so determined. Government trust that, in the meantime, the public will co-operate with them in the maintenance of law and order.

SATYAGRAHA GOING STRONG

Ingenious Methods To Evade Ban

(From Our Correspondent). POONA CITY, May 6. Sensation ran high at the Sonya Maruti Chowk this morning when Mr. A. H. Khargiwal, Bar-at-Law and other prominent Hindu citizens, belonging to the Sardar family, performed worship of the Sonya Maruti Deity, according to strict religious rites and to the accompaniment of music before large crowds numbering several thousands.

This programme having been Crowd before Sonya Maruti Temple, Poona, in connection with which a Satyagraha campaign is being carried on.

announced earlier, "pucca" Police "bundobast" had been arranged in view of the large crowds that assembled to witness the performance.

Musical accompaniment for the Puja ceremony had been cleverly arranged with a view to evade the District Magistrate's music prohibitory order. Private "Bhajan" parties and band parties and music parties with Drums, Sanaal and Cowhuda had been stationed in the premises of private buildings adjoining the Sonya Maruti Temple and they all began playing music simultaneously as Mr. Khargiwal commenced "Puja."

Large crowds participated in the act of deity with clapping of hands and cries of "Sonya Maruti-Ki-Jai."

Mr. Khargiwal at this time pressed button specially designed in wooden bell which switched on current to an electric bell attached through electric wiring to an adjacent private building and set it ringing.

Crowds at this time having been swelled police with great difficulty kept them back and contingents of armed and lathi police had to be requisitioned to keep ready in case emergency arose.

The D. S. P. Mr. Wilkins and the City Inspector Mr. Lickfold were personally present on the spot.

Police ushered the presence in some private houses and took possession of some drums. Mr. Khargiwal after the worship was allowed to go unharmed.

Meanwhile the Satyagraha continues unabated and about a dozen persons were courting imprisonment among them being Mr. Krishnashastri Kawade and Keshavrao Deshmukh, two prominent Sanatanists.

Mr. L. B. Bhopatkar, a Rajwadi, the democrat Hindus are understood offering Satyagraha to-morrow.

"FUNDAMENTAL CIVIC RIGHT"

Mr. Bhopatkar Condemns Magistrate's Ban

POONA, May 6. Mr. L. B. Bhopatkar, leader of the Democratic Swaraj Party in the course of a statement to the Press says:

"I am intimately concerned from the beginning with the Sonya Maruti controversy. I firmly maintain that neither the trustees of the temple nor the Hindus can be blamed in this matter in any way by any body. Last year, the District Magistrate issued at first a general prohibitory order exactly like the present one. He was, however, immediately transferred. The present District Magistrate who assumed charge in the place was so much convinced by my pleading of the justice of the Hindu contention that on the last day of the last year's festival he allowed worship with music and 'kirtan' at the Sonya Maruti temple. If the local policemen and officers had taken proper precaution from the beginning of the last year's disturbance, the trouble would have been checked and the loss of life and property would have been averted."

FUNDAMENTAL CIVIC RIGHT. "Celebration of the Sonya Maruti festival from Hanumat Jayanti till Akshaya Tritiya is an old accepted right of the Hindus. It is not only a religious but a fundamental civic right. It was the duty of the local authorities to preserve and protect that right. The Poona District Magistrate clearly attacked the religious rights and long standing practice of Hindus by misuse of power under the pretext of preserving public tranquillity. While the District Magistrate was thinking of issuing the order, his personal assistant was ascertaining information about details of the celebrations.

for two days. "I humbly request the Hindu brethren not to take part in the Coronation ceremonies on May 12 and observe complete 'hartal'. I say nothing against the personality of the King but when at the very outset of his reign, his one officer does not hesitate to wound the religious sentiments of the whole Hindu community, how should the Hindus be inclined to entertain good feelings about his regime?"—United Press.

Bijapur Protest Against Sonya Maruti Ban

(From Our Correspondent). BIJAPUR, May 4. A public meeting was held under the auspices of the local Hindu Mahasabha, Rao Saheb Halkatti presiding. Mr. Sardeshpande moved resolutions condemning the District Magistrate's prohibitory order regarding Sonya Maruti temple worship. Mr. Hremath supported. Mr. Sardeshpande narrated in brief the history of Sonya Maruti Satyagraha and how the order affected fundamental right of Hindu religious worship. Resolutions 'inter alla' appealed to higher officials to intervene in this affair.

Mr. V. B. Naik, Editor, "Karnatak Vaibhava" while according his full support to the resolutions justified his doing so by citing the fundamental rights resolution of Karachi Congress. He asked where were Messrs. Bhopatkar and Kelkar, who advised Ministry to protect Hindu rights? Why should they not demand Mr. Jamnadas Mehta to resign? He also condemned local Hindu Mahasabha Secretary's action in garlanding a dummy Minister and entertaining him to dinner, flouting public opinion.

Rao Saheb Halkatti wound up the proceedings.

Appalling Famine Conditions In Dohad & Jhalod

Remit Land Revenue For Five Years: Declare Moratorium On Debts: Kamaladevi Suggests Remedy

BOMBAY, May 6. "Those bleak sunken faces with dark despair written on their hungry faces—men, women and children, emaciated, skinny and dressed in tatters—haunt me still," said Mrs. Kamaladevi Chattopadhyaya to the "United Press" when asked about the famine conditions in Dohad and Jhalod. Mrs. Kamaladevi who presided over the Gujarat Provincial Congress Socialist Conference which was held recently toured parts of the famine-stricken area in between the sessions of the Conference.

She continued:—

"The scene is tragic. I have gone into famine areas before. But such destitution, blank despair, misery and starvation I have never before seen. The sight of these helpless people shocked me and shook my entire being. I do not think I can ever forget the sight, the memory of which produces a strange feeling of unhappiness and pain."

IN PERPETUAL SCARCITY

"The famine-stricken area extends to about 600 square miles with a population of 125,000. The rainfall does not exceed 14 inches when the shower is heavy and regular; but often it is very much less. There is, therefore, a condition of perpetual scarcity of famine. That such a vast population spread over such a large area should be condemned to a life of eternal misery and want is characteristic of scandalous administrative indifference."

"The employment provided by such of the relief works as are started, does not touch the fringe of the acute distress. The remuneration through such employment does not exceed two annas a day and the men have to put even their children on the job to earn this miserable pittance. It is no relief, but a process of prolonged agony. Relief work done by non-official agencies like the Congress or the Bhil Seva Mandal cannot cope with the immensity of the problem. Doles and relief works seem but a cruel mockery in the face of the general, wide-spread hunger and desolation. Something more tangible, more permanent is needed."

THE REMEDY

"Even declaration of famine conditions will not help much. What the situation demands is radical treatment of a chronic malady. The least that should be done as a matter of immediate relief for the people in this land of perpetual famine is to remit land revenue for five years, declaration of a moratorium on debts, and revision settlement. Any remedy short of these is to tinker with a problem which affects the very life of one and quarter lakhs of our fellow beings who have as much right to reasonable human existence as any others."—United Press.

INDO-BRITISH TRADE TALKS

SIMLA, May 6

It is understood that the Indo-British Trade negotiations will commence in London from the middle of June and last till the end of July. The unofficial advisers and the technical experts who leave for London in the third week of May are expected to return by the middle of August.

THE THREE MUSKETEERS

THE DISTINGUISHED TRAVELLER.

The distinguished-looking traveller was a man of middle age with dark piercing eyes, a pale complexion, a strongly marked nose, and a black and well-dressed moustache. He wore a doublet and hose of a violet colour, but they were somewhat creased, being evidently travelling-clothes that had been packed in a portmanteau for a long time. D'Artagnan made all these observations in a second, moved by a strange instinctive feeling that this man was to have great influence over his future life.

THE FIRST QUARREL.

A fresh outburst of laughter from the group at the window made d'Artagnan's blood boil, and with suppressed fury he cried, "Why not say what you are laughing at, so we can laugh together."

"I don't often laugh," answered the stranger, "but I reserve the right of laughing when I please."

Zetland Bangs Door Against Congress

too much to hope that occasions will never arise in which neither side can win a good conscience. But in my picture of the working of the government under the act is true and in the relations between the Governor and his Ministry are those of partners in a common enterprise, there can be no possible question of the Governor interfering constantly and embarrassingly in the responsibilities and work of the Ministers.

AN ASSURANCE REPEATED. Lord Zetland repeated the assurance given by Mr. Butler when he said his Majesty's Government have no intention of countenancing the use of special powers for other than the purposes for which Parliament intended. It is certainly not the intention that the Governor or legal interpretation of their own responsibilities should trench upon the wide powers which it was the purpose of Parliament to place in the hands of Ministers and which it is our desire they should use in furtherance of the programmes which they advocated. In the working of the Constitution as far as it at present is possible to judge, I find happy confirmation of the picture as I have always seen it.

AN OBJECT LESSON. "Both in the provinces in which Ministers are working with majorities in the Legislatures and those in which Minority Ministries are functioning, a bold programme has been drawn up as far as I know without the smallest attempt on the part of any Governor to interfere.

Is it too much to hope that those who have so far hesitated to accept the responsibilities of office from a mistaken sense of fearlest they should be unduly hampered in their tasks, will derive reassurance and encouragement from the object lesson provided by the actual working of the Constitution in their midst? I need hardly say that I hope devoutly and in all sincerity that it may be so."

IMMEDIATE NEED. Lord Snell proceeded that the most immediate need was to give the people of India an assurance that their wishes and work will not continuously be thwarted either by the Government of India or the India Office. Lord Snell appealed to the leaders of the people of India to try out this great experiment and not lead the people of India into a mere wilderness of barren negation. He added he should like to express to the Indian people his sincere belief that the British people would not tolerate the Governors needlessly thwarting their wishes or harassing the Ministers in their work.

HIS BELIEF. Lord Snell also expressed the belief that the Governors of the provinces would desire to win the trust and friendship of those among whom they worked. Their dearest wish would be to return to their own country at the end of their service with a record of reserved powers entirely unused. He mentioned the name of Gandhiji in connection with the question, but that included the desire that the Government should avail itself of any other helpful method of contact and appeasement.

"WISEST COURSE". Lord Salisbury expressed the opinion that the wisest course to pursue was not to try to interfere with the administration of the Act. Let both sides in India be as conciliatory as possible, but it would be a great pity if it was thought that the Governor's powers were unimportant and insignificant. Reuter.

INDO-BRITISH TRADE AGREEMENT

ing England free, as a measure to encourage bilateral agreements with other countries irrespective of their effects on this country. In fact, many of the raw materials from India are essential for England, especially as she is feverishly re-arming and can ill-afford to be without raw materials for which at least Germany is claiming the return of its old colonies. Nor should the fact be ignored that India has to make annual remittances of nearly Rs. 78 crores to the United Kingdom. All these "invisible" items should be included in any proper evaluation of the balance of payments between India and England. Since India has no other means of discharging her obligations to Great Britain, it is only in her interests but in Britain's interests as well that she should have a favourable balance adequate for the payment of her foreign obligations.

British Preference

Lastly, it must be emphasised that none of the articles on which the United Kingdom gives preference to India is likely to affect the development of any industry within the United Kingdom while in our case the preferences affect industries which have been and could be built up here and in some of which the United Kingdom is our keenest competitor. In other words, Indian exports consist mainly of raw materials whereas the United Kingdom exports comprise entirely of manufactured goods nearly 167 of which have secured preferential treatment in this country under the Ottawa Agreement. No preference should, therefore, be conceded that would tend to affect adversely the industrialisation of India, which is now accepted as an integral part of our national economic policy. India's fiscal autonomy has already been seriously restricted through the Indo-British Trade Agreement and it is absolutely essential that none of the clauses of that Agreement should be included in the new trade pact. In fact, imperial preference in one form or another has become an integral part of our fiscal policy and a 'sine qua non' of protection of Indian industries. Preferential treatment to British industries is demanded almost as a price of protection which is a distinct question that should be judged on its own merits. It does not matter whether such preferential duties are described as differential duties, as in the case of steel industry or as a measure of reciprocity as in the Ottawa Agreement. The advantages derived by the United Kingdom from preferential duties in respect of steel and cotton which were valued at nearly £27 millions and were further increased at Ottawa without any 'quid pro quo' far outweigh corresponding benefits to India in the United Kingdom market and these should be taken into account in any reciprocal trade agreement between England and India. For the plain fact must be faced that the Indian taxpayer and consumer have to pay for the inability of the British manufacturer to compete with his foreign rival in the Indian market on equal terms. Imperial preference, in brief, has for India all the drawbacks of free trade without the advantages of protection. Our rulers might be against planned economy in any shape or form but one cannot help feeling that in the economic and political conditions of the country, India is more planned against than planning.

It is hoped that these vital principles, which were neglected and ignored at Ottawa, would be steadily kept in view by the unofficial advisers even if as a result there is no trade agreement, because it is axiomatic that Great Britain needs the Indian market far more than India needs the British market.

Fire Fighters Battle Big City Blaze

Building That Played Historic Role In Anti-Willingdon Memorial Days Guttred

BOMBAY, Thursday.
Hundreds of city clerks and employees missed their usual lunch at the Arya Bhuvan, Apollo Street Fort, to-day, as the building in which the Hotel is situated, was gutted by a fire which blazed for nearly two hours in the morning.

Huge columns of black smoke hung like a pall over the heads of thousands of people, who collected near the place to watch the fire.

Seven fire engines worked on top gear pumping up water through a dozen hoses directed on the building.

At about 9-30 this morning the Fire Brigade received a call and when they arrived at the scene they found the building enveloped in flames and smoke.

Laying water hoses all over the area the fire-men trained nearly a dozen powerful jets of water on the raging flames for nearly two hours, before the fire was brought under control.

Superintendent Buh, Inspector Raje and other officers of the Palton Road station were immediately on the scene and had a busy time in keeping the crowds back and diverting traffic at the rush hour.

Sun Shut Out.
For some time, the sun did not shine over that bit of earth, so thick was the cloud of smoke that rose from this blazing furnace.

With a dull red glow of light, the building appeared to be internally illuminated presenting an awe-inspiring spectacle, as the destructive flames spread from one corner to another.

Outside in the streets confusion prevailed. Hundreds of motor cars which were to have passed along the Churchgate Street, Apollo Street were diverted along other routes. Bus service beyond Flora Fountain towards the Ballard Estate was suspended.

Employees going to office had to make their way through thousands of men and women who were watching the fire.

A maze of water hoses spread over the area extending from the rear of the Imperial Bank right up to the Tamarind Lane, carried water to the fire-fighters.

On Perilous Perch.
Perilously perched on top of torpedo ladders and house-roofs the fire-men turned the water hoses on the raging flames, it took nearly an hour to localise the fire.

Governor Watches Fire.
Lord Brabourne, Governor of Bombay, accompanied by his Private Secretary paid a visit to the scene and for a few minutes went round the area having a look at the arrangements made to fight the fire.

Shortly before Mr. I. H. Taunton, Municipal Commissioner visited the scene and later Mr. W. R. G. Smith, Commissioner of Police arrived and inspected the place.

How the fire started is a matter of conjecture, for, no one is determinately in a position to say what was its origin.

The police believe that fire started as a result of spontaneous combustion of some inflammable material in the office of the Pickfair Pictures Corporation, a film company. This Corporation is housed in a room on the first floor of the building, also occupied by the hotel, Arya Bhuvan.

There were several other offices in the building including those of two Insurance Companies, namely, the Bharat Bima, Limited, and the Managing Agency of the North British and Mercantile Insurance Company. Though everything inside has been burnt to cinders the sign board of the Bharat Bima Limited alone hangs unaffected by the fire.

The fire was brought under control a few minutes past 12 in the noon.

The building is jointly owned by Messrs. Mulraj Thackersey & Company and the Sirdar Carbonic Acid Gas Company.

The extent of damage, partly covered by insurance, is estimated at about Rs. 2 lakhs.

While all the offices housed in the first and second floors of the building were gutted, not much havoc was caused on the ground floor. On the first and second floor charred splinters of wood and beams are the only traces of what was but a few hours ago humming with business activity.

On the first floor of the building occupied by the Arya Bhuvan, ghee worth Rs. 1,000/- was stored and the ghee, it is stated only added to the spread of the flames.

In this historic building, nearly two decades back, were the headquarters of the famous Anti-Willingdon Memorial Committee of which the late Mr. Vaikunt Desai was Secretary. The offices of the Insurance Company, of which Mr. Desai was Manager, were used for the purpose.

On the night previous to that historic demonstration, the Home League volunteers were housed in the building, in preparation for their rush to the Town Hall the next morning.

After the break-up of the meeting Mr. M. A. Jinnah and Mr. B. G. Horniman and other leaders addressed a mammoth public meeting in Apollo Street from the upper windows of the building.

The thrilling scene in Apollo Street in front of the Imperial Bank Building, at the height of Thursday's big blaze, which gutted the building on the opposite side of the road.

U. P. SURPRISE FOR JINNAH

Sign Of Life That We Want To Part Company
And Join Congress

MUSLIM LEADERS' RETORT

ALLAHABAD, May 1.
The organizers of the informal conference of Muslims to be held at Allahabad on May 15 and 16 have issued the following statement to the Press:—

"In his solicitude, Mr. Jinnah has chosen to ask us our objective in holding the conference of U.P. Muslim Congressmen. He is further anxious that we may not be betraying the Mussalmans of India. As to our 'bona fides' Mr. Jinnah may as well know that practically all of us have actively participated in Muslim mass movements spreading over a decade and a half. Only recently, we organized the Palestine Conference at Allahabad. Individually, most of us are connected, even at present, with various progressive social and religious Muslim movements.

SIGNS OF LIFE

"We, on our part are somewhat amazed at the reactions of Mr. Jinnah towards the new signs of life which are visible among U.P. Muslims and their growing anti-imperialist outlook. Of course, Mr. Jinnah refuses to see or acknowledge the renewed urge of the Muslims of India for freedom and national struggle. In fact, he characterises all such tendencies as betrayal of Muslim interests. It is a misfortune that after the bold and courageous leadership of the late Maulana Mohd. Ali, the Shaikh-ul-Hind, Mr. Jinnah should have chosen to court popularity with certain sections of Muslims who are only too closely associated with social and political reactionism. Political questions apart, even on a primarily religious issue like the Khilafat movement, the Congress made tremendous sacrifices and put it in the forefront of its demands.

PREPARING THE MASSES

"The Congress is preparing the masses, both Muslim and non-Muslim, to fight the battle of economic and political freedom. It has a tradition of suffering and sacrifice to which we Muslims have substantially contributed. During the last election, the Congress succeeded in routing Hindu social reaction, while Mr. Jinnah ended up by strengthening the Muslim reactionary elements in our province. It is a sign of life that we want to part company with Mr. Jinnah and those friends who have kept the Muslims away from the national anti-imperial struggle.

"Thus those of us who have joined the Congress or are about to join it are not the less conscious of the rights and interests of the Muslims than Mr. Jinnah. We want the Muslims to be bold and sacrificing, and we certainly want them to participate in the freedom struggle around us. This alone will protect their rights and position.

We don't believe that Hindus or Englishmen will protect our rights. The bonds of weak and futile friendship are bound to break and we are only helping that process in U.P.—the centre of Islamic culture and healthy political life—by calling a conference of those who have turned their back towards essentially reactionary leadership and decided to join the Congress in the struggle for freedom."—Hindustan Times.

Viceroy May Not Sum- mon Gandhi Or Nehru

But Provincial Govts. Testify To Congress Strength

CALCUTTA, May 6.
The Simla Special Correspondent of "Statesman" mentions in a despatch that replies received by Government of India from the Provincial Headquarters indicate that Congress refusal to accept office has not reacted adversely on the Congress hold on the electorate, and that the programme of Interim Ministries, while meeting with popular approval is being represented as born of a desire to borrow the Congress platform.

These reactions, the Correspondent adds, may enable Simla to advise London on the best line of approach to solve the constitutional deadlock. There is no likelihood, according to him of the Interim Ministries being dismissed prematurely before the verdict of the Provincial Assemblies on their programme is ascertained.

The Correspondent discounts the possibility of Mahatma Gandhi or Pandit Nehru being called for consultation by the Viceroy.—United Press.

Dr. Atal In Spain

IMPRESSIONS OF THE COUNTRY AND THE STRUGGLE

(From Our Own Correspondent)
ZURICH, April 27.

Dr. Atal the eminent Indian doctor, who will also be remembered as having accompanied Mrs. Kamala Nehru to Europe and remained in attendance on her till the end, it is probably known, left a short while back for Spain. Dr. Atal has gone there as a member of a medical mission organized by the Spanish Aid Society in London. In the course of a communication to a friend, Dr. Atal gives some impressions about Spain, the people, and the struggle, which may prove of interest to your readers. Dr. Atal, under date 21st April, writes:—

"I arrived here in Valencia a couple of days ago passing the frontier between France and Spain at Cerbere and coming over Barcelona. Crossing the frontier I met different officials of the Red Cross who were very polite, kind and helpful. Barcelona is one of the prettiest towns in Europe. I have been all over Europe. Barcelona beats most towns from the point of view of beauty. I was delighted with it. The Spaniards are a jolly lot. Every cafe and restaurant was crowded. So also cinemas and theatres. There was indeed here little outwardly to show that the war was on but for the posters and uniforms, had occasion to take taxi twice. On both of these occasions I received tips to the drivers over and above the fare. They very politely refused to take it. I have had similar experiences with waiters at restaurants. There is a state of ferment. About people a spirit of independence. Symbols perhaps of the fight as known apart, of a great inner process of change. One is impressed by the popular spirit. It makes one think that these will not be easily beaten.

From Barcelona I left for Valencia. It took two days to reach Valencia. It was an interesting journey. The orange fields were beautiful. Valencia is overcrowded. It is not easy to find accommodation. I depart from here to a base or centre assigned by the Red Cross. No doubt there is the element of danger. At one place while in a hotel I have already had the experience of an alarm signal at five minutes. But one forgets to worry about the danger. The Red Cross work is also more absorbing when it is in connection with a struggle. It also lends its encouragement to feel that it is for a people who one considers are fighting and fighting under severe hardships, for the ideal held of freedom."
